

EMERGENCY SUPPLY KIT

Prepare for a disaster or emergency by packing an emergency supply kit

Do you have enough food and water in your house to survive on your own for three days if a disaster strikes? This fact sheet tells you how to pack and maintain an emergency supply kit and enough food and water in case of disaster.

Prepare for a disaster. Start with a checklist of items for your emergency supply kit.

Pack an emergency supply kit. Here's what you'll need:

Container

An easy-to-carry container for your supplies

A permanent marker to label the container

Waterproof containers for papers and medicines

Water and Food

3 gallons of water = 3 days for 1 person
A gallon of water is 64 ounces
(Five 12-oz water bottles is almost a gallon.)
3 gallons of water for each additional person

Two weeks worth of food and can opener (Pack food that is easy to make and won't spoil.)

Electronics

Flashlight and extra batteries

Battery powered or hand crank radio (NOAA Weather Radio, if possible)

Medical

First aid kit

Multipurpose tool

Medications (7-day supply), other medical supplies, and paperwork on any medical condition

Soap, toothbrush, and other personal care items

Additional kit items on the following page >>

Also Include:

Copies of important documents

Extra cash

A blanket

Maps of the area
Emergency contact information for family

Extra set of car
and house keys

Chargers for cell phones and other mobile devices

Food and water for pets

Finish the job:

Clearly label the containers.

Place them where you can easily reach them if you are in a hurry.

Maintain your kit

Every few months, open your emergency supply kit to remove any food or beverage items or batteries that will expire.

If you have babies, children, pets, or special medical needs, read on.Add to your emergency supply kit when someone has medical needs

If someone has medical needs, pack these additional items:

- Medical supplies
- Paperwork about the medical condition, stored in a waterproof container

Add to your emergency supply kit if you have babies or children

If there are babies or children in your family, pack these additional items:

- Baby supplies
- Games and activities for children

Add to your emergency supply kit if you have pets

- Food and water for at least 3 days for each pet; food and water bowls.
- Medications and medical records stored in a waterproof container.

If a disaster strikes your community, you might not have access to food, water, or electricity for some time. You can get sick if you drink contaminated or dirty water. You can get hurt if you must move around when there are no lights on. But with an emergency supply kit and enough water on hand, you can keep yourself and your family safer and healthier during a difficult time.

Visit this website to see a list of additional items you may include in your emergency supply kit:
http://www.address_here

You can read more about coping with disaster at these 2 sites:

CDC's emergency water supply http://www.emergency_address_here

Emergency food supply http://www.emergency/preparedness_address_here.asp